ADVERTISING AND SOCIAL MEDIA

SECTION ONE

Figure 1(a) shows the amount of money (in millions of $NZ) that businesses spent on advertising from 2012 to 2023.

It is separated into four of the various types of advertising available.

SECTION TWO

Businesses wanting to sell their products on social media can choose to advertise their product themselves ('self-made') or they can pay an advertising company to advertise their products for them ('commercial'). Potential customers will then have the opportunity to view these advertisements in their social media feed.

It compares the number of customer views for a 'self-made' and a 'commercial' advertisement post.

Any business which has decided to pay to advertise their items then has the choice between many advertising companies which will organise the advertising for them.
